

COTTON MARKET

(Associated Press)

NEW YORK, July 28—Cotton futures opened easy. October 25-05; December 25-25; January 24-76; March 25-05; May 25-27.

ALBANY-DECATUR DAILY

DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS AND UPBUILDING OF ALBANY-DECATUR, ALABAMA

VOLUME XIII

ALBANY, ALABAMA, TUESDAY, JULY 28, 1925

NUMBER 126

(Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 28—Alabama: Fair in central and north. Thunderstorms in extreme south portion. Slightly cooler north tonight.

BRYAN'S DEFENSE OF THE BIBLE MADE PUBLIC

Shriners Meet Tonight To Plan Hospital Aid

$20,000 NEEDED TO INSURE ADDITIONAL WING OF 20 ROOMS

Shriners Will Decide On Plan For Raising Sum Necessary

ATTENDANCE OF SHRINERS URGED

Final Decision Looked For On Effort To Aid Institution

Members of the Tennessee Valley Shrine club have been invited to attend a conference tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. when it is expected that a final decision will be reached on the question of beginning, immediately, a campaign for $20,000 to erect an additional wing to the Benevolent hospital.

Letters have been sent out to more than 100 Shriners by Thomas A. Bowles, urging them to attend the conference tonight. Mr. Bowles requested the Shriners to be prepared to render a final decision on the plans for aiding the hospital, which plans have been hanging fire for several months.

Under the plan, as originally outlined by the Shrine club, the organization would invite the aid and co-operation of the Kiwanis club and other organizations, in an effort to raise $20,000 which amount, it was estimated, would provide the hospital with 20 additional rooms, or practically doubling the capacity of the institution.

The Benevolent hospital, taking care, as it does, of the hospital needs of Albany, Decatur and Lawrence, Morgan and parts of Limestone county is crowded badly. Additional room and additional equipment is needed at once.

The hospital, while operated on a safe financial basis, has made an unusually good record, in that it has never turned away a patient because the patient lacked the financial resources to pay for hospital treatment.

Because of the treatment of so many charity cases, it has never been able to build up a reserve fund of facilities, as rapidly as they were needed and help must come from the communities that it serves.

Mr. Bowles urged the attendance of every Shriner at the meeting this evening.

Edward Price Is Back From Voyage

Edward Price, popular local boy, has returned home here after having spent several weeks of his vacation on a tour of Europe, having visited Liverpool, Scotland and other points. Mr. Price and a friend of his in Mobile decided to while away some of their summer hours by shipping aboard a shipping board vessel bound for foreign ports. They declared the work was pleasant and their trip enjoyable.

First Cotton Boll Brought To Daily Off Utopia Farm

The first cotton boll of the season was brought to the Daily office today exactly 120 days after the seed had been put in the ground. The boll was brought from the Utopia farm lands of P. P. Gilchrist and is of the Addison Prolific variety.

Mr. Gilchrist is also credited with bringing in the first bloom of the season off the same farm lands.

The first boll indicates that the Morgan County crop as usual is fine and that the county will have the best yield that has been seen in years.

Not Work of Cyclone

What appears to be the result of a devastating cyclone is in reality a typical Chinese store after a mob of students wrecked it during the recent riots.

GIANT TURBINE IS INSTALLED AT DAM

Difficulty Experienced In Getting Wheel To Shoals Area

After having experienced much difficulty in getting the big water wheel over the railroads a giant turbine for the second unit at Wilson Dam, has arrived in the Shoals district and is being installed at the dam. The turbine is said to be the largest single casting ever made.

J. P. Weston, of the dam staff, accompanied the turbine from the plant of the Newport News Shipbuilding Co. The wheel weighs 124,660 pounds and Mr. Weston was forced to bring the turbine to Sheffield by a roundabout way in order that as many tunnels and weak bridges as possible could be avoided.

He told the Tri-Cities Daily that in one of the tunnels through which it came, there was only a 4-inch clearance between the top of the casting and the roof of the tunnel. On a bridge between Anniston and Wilton, empty freight cars had to be placed on either side of the car, bearing the turbine, in order to distribute the load and the engine had to be slowed down to five miles per hour.

The generators for the second unit of the dam are now being installed and the entire first unit is practically complete.

Back From Meeting Of Rexall Dealers

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Goidel returned yesterday from Boston, Mass., where they attended a national conference of Rexall dealers. On their way home they visited a number of eastern cities and other places of interest.

Two Persons Die Result Of Battle

(Associated Press) RICHMOND, Va., July 28—H. G. Carter, proprietor of a restaurant and Miss Vivian Tomlin, a waitress, were shot to death in Carter's establishment here today. J. H. Burk, a police detective, lies at a hospital probably fatally wounded and Willis Britt, suffered bullet wounds in the leg. Police have arrested Rudolph Diesse, 18, and charged him with the shooting.

SEVEN UNLUCKY

Seven fines were assessed in Albany police court this morning, proving the numeral is not always lucky. The assessed fines totaled $126.20.

WORK STARTED ON SHOALS HIGHWAY; SCRUGGS A VISITOR

Member of State Unit And Engineer Go To Lawrence

PAVING CONTRACT IS TO BE LET SOON

Impassable Stretches Already Are Being Eliminated

J. H. Scruggs, commissioner of construction, Alabama State highway department stated today that plans are moving forward for the building of the Decatur-Tusculum highway for which the commission has appropriated $260,000. Morgan county appropriation for approximately nine miles of this roadway has been placed at $140,000. Commissioner Scruggs and State Highway Engineer Smith left this morning for Lawrence county where the preparatory work is being carried on prior to the placing of machinery and materials for the building of a standard type roadway.

Highway forces have been at work on the stretch of roadway in Lawrence county, between Courtland and Town Creek, for the past two weeks and have succeeded in making that strip of highway passable. The work of scarifying and ditching has formed the first part of the highway construction. Making this roadway so that it may be traversed eliminates more than five miles of the approximate eight miles in this section which have stood as an almost insurmountable barrier to the wagon and motor driven vehicle alike.

Commissioner Scruggs in talking with friends, of the details of the commission plans for the completion of this project, stated that the highway department expects to let the contract for the building of this road at the earliest possible moment. He could not give any definite date for the building, however.

It is understood that the completion of the Muscle Shoals-Decatur roadway is one of the primary objects of the commission. Completion of the project will mean that a highway of standard type is maintained from Birmingham to the heart of the Shoals district. The highway is believed to be of immense value to the entire Shoals section.

This stretch of highway it is declared will greatly increase the road facilities for Lawrence and Morgan county farmers for coming into these cities and will establish communication between the Lawrence county cities and the capital city of Morgan county. Approximately twelve months is thought to be required for finishing the entire roadway.

COMMITTEE STILL WORKS ON BRIDGE CELEBRATION PLAN

Conference Last Night Followed By Parley This Morning

REPORT WILL BE PREPARED SOON

Committee Will Meet Soon With Directors Of Civic Chamber

The committee, named at a meeting of the chamber of commerce last week, to recommend plans for celebrating the beginning of work on the Tennessee river bridge here, held a lengthy conference last night at the Central National bank, and this morning held a second conference, at the Tennessee Valley bank.

The committee also plans to meet with the directors of the chamber of commerce, when the committee's recommendations will be gone over and final approval given whatever plan ultimately is adopted.

Members of the committee today were not ready to make public any recommendations, stating that they preferred to offer the plan as a whole. It is known, however, that they plan to invite a number of prominent people to be the guests of the Twin Cities on the date the first pile is sunk.

Members of the state highway commission are expected to be among the guests of honor, while all northern Alabama and southern Tennessee communities will be invited to co-operate with Albany and Decatur in celebrating the connecting of the links of the Bee Line Highway south and north of the river.

Members of the steering committee believed this morning that all indications pointed to the fact that the celebration would be one of the greatest ever observed in Alabama and their plans will be made on a proportionately elaborate scale.

Police Court Nets Albany Large Sum

The Albany police court, during the month of July, has netted the City of Albany close to $2,000, with several more days in which to increase the total, it was reported today at the city hall.

The month of July was described by officials as the most profitable to the city from police court fines of any month in years, in fact, since the old pre-prohibition days, when arrests were frequent.

Today:

By ARTHUR BRISBANE (Copyright, 1925, By The Star Co.) For Albany-Decatur Daily.

Mr. Rockefeller, celebrating his 86th birthday, went back to the place where he was born. The house is gone but the spot can be identified. That old man looking from his powerful car as he drove among the hills, over which his bare feet carried him in his boyhood, represents opportunity and progress in America.

DOWN the lane leading to his father's little farm house, John D. Rockefeller used to watch his uncle, a good horse trader and general business man, drive out with one team of horses, and come back with a team much better.

Now his own business supplies from thousands of stations, the power that drives millions of automobiles all over the world.

Bare Feet To Airplane. One Way To Spend. War Forever, No. Australia's Task.

As a mere incident in his business, one of his organizations recently ordered for time saving one of the biggest flying machines ever built, and that machine to be the first of a commercial flying fleet.

No generation, not even that of Columbus, or Drake, has ever seen the changes, the miracles of progress that this generation has seen.

A RICH and benevolent gentleman named Scheppe with a desire to be useful, asks the public to suggest what he should do with his money.

Many suggestions have been offered, tens of thousands, more than enough. But here's another. Establish a fund to distribute

(Continued on page three)

Runaway

The mysterious disappearance in New York of Mrs. John De Fuller, legless from birth and unable to move about, baffled her husband, shown holding her in the picture. Mrs. De Fuller took jewels and cash with her.

WATER SUPPLY IS TESTED FOR KI-Y

Tents And Cots Here For Opening Camp August 4

After several weeks drilling, in an attempt to locate a healthful water supply on the site of the Ki-Y camp near Vinemont, Ala., water is now available and is being tested today. It was found necessary to do a great deal of work on the camp site before the water supply was available for the boys use.

Cots and tents have arrived according to information given today from the Y. M. C. A. The Y is co-operating with the Kiwanis club in the effort to establish a permanent camp site in connection with the underprivileged boys programme that the Kiwanis club has been sponsoring.

S. E. Arvidson director of the camp is expected to return to the city Thursday after having spent the last two weeks at Blue Ridge, N. C., where he has been taking a general course in Y. M. C. A. work along with the annual vacation period. Mr. Arvidson, Maynard Layman and possibly one or two others will be connected in the direction of the camp activities.

SOBERNESS TO GET MAN HIS FREEDOM

Leniency Is Shown To Government's Witness

(Associated Press)

MOBILE, Ala., July 28.—If Lewis Williams, Jr., a defendant in the Washington county liquor conspiracy case, on trial in the United States court here, will remain sober for six months and report regularly once a month to the court here, he will not be forced to serve his two years sentence, despite his plea of guilty, Judge Robert T. Ervin declared today, when he placed Williams on probation, instead of forcing him to serve the time, because of the trouble Williams had endured in assisting the government in the prosecution by his testimony.

Williams will be at absolute liberty during the six months.

The testimony given by Williams was to the effect that he had paid J. S. Powell for protection, while he engaged in the liquor business and that Sheriff Underdonk, with whom he had drunk liquor frequently, knew of the arrangement.

TRIBUTES ARE PAID FROM THE HEART TO DEPARTED CHIEFTIAN

Body of Commoner Lies In Simple State At Dayton, Tenn.

SIMPLE PEOPLE GATHER AT BIER

Arrangements For Trip To Washington Are Completed

(Associated Press)

DAYTON, Tenn., July 28.—As the body of William Jennings Bryan lay in simple state at the home of a friend here today, simple people of America paid him sympathetic tributes.

While others from amongst their midst poured messages of condolence into the little white cottage which housed the remains of the commoner, uncounted thousands, whose cause he had championed mourned a leader silently.

Of varying political views, he had found in them a common chord when he had come forward as a defender of the inspired Bible and revealed religion.

Even as news came from Washington that arrangements had been made for the interest of their beloved leader among the nation's heroes, many of them were pinning messages of sympathy to his widow.

And, while members of the immediate family were hurrying across the continent from California and from other western and midwestern states, these admirers were discussing his virtues in homely phrases.

Among the foothills of the Cumberland, where he had spent the closing days of his career, farmers paused to talk with neighbors of the man who had passed. In simple terms they spoke of him, as they had heard him during the past several weeks, or they laid aside their work in orchards and cornfields, or in the daer cmfwyppj cornfield or made their way to Dayton where the body this afternoon will lie in state.

Out of deference to these simple people, Mrs. Bryan, who has expressed a desire for an unostentatious funeral service for her husband, postponed arrangements so that they may take a last look at his remains. Their appreciation of this deference was shown today. By foot, astride mules, jostling behind rude conveyances and by automobile they came from amongst the hills. They talked in hushed tones as they formed an informal parade of honor, which passed down Market street to the little home in South Dayton.

Lightly they stepped as they left

(Continued on page Two)

Senator Heflin's Statement On The Death of Mr. Bryan

"Bryan is dead!" That sad message will produce profound sorrow wherever the Christian religion has a sincere advocate and clean politics an earnest adherent.

Wherever good morals and ennobling political ideals have been involved he has always been found in the thickest of the fight. No man in the political life of our country has done so much as he to break down the dangerous idols that selfishness and greed have erected on the plains of American politics. He has been a thorn in the flesh of predatory interests and a terror to all political corruptionists. How fitting that he should fight his last battle and achieve his last great victory against the forces of atheism and infidelity who would substitute their philosophical theories for God's revealed word regarding the creation of man.

PRUDENCE'S DAUGHTER

By Ethel Hueston

Copyright by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

SYNOPSIS

PART ONE

CHAPTER I.—At a merry party in the studio apartment of Carter Blake, in New York, Jerry Harmer, Prudence's daughter, meets Duane Allerton, wealthy idler. He becomes slightly intoxicated, and Jerry, resenting his assumption of familiarity, leaves the party abruptly.

CHAPTER II.—The story turns to Jerry's childhood and youth at her home in Decatur. Only child of a wealthy father, when she is twenty she feels the call of Art and her parents, with some misgivings, agree to her going to New York to study.

MILLION A MONTH BUREAU'S AVERAGE

President O'Neal Tells Members Of Work During the Year

(Associated Press)
MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 28.—Business transactions of the Alabama farm bureau for the past year have exceeded an average of $1,000,000 a month, President Edward A. O'Neal told members of the bureau at the first session of the annual convention of that body, which is convened here yesterday afternoon.

Mr. O'Neal, in his report, stated that the bureau had transacted business totaling $12,489,687.99 in the past year. He also reported a 15 per cent gain in membership for the body.

Delegates to the convention, about 200 in number, representing 60 counties, were welcomed to Montgomery by W. A. Gunter, mayor, and W. W. Brandon, governor.

Several talks were made during the afternoon session and special committees were appointed by the president. The session was closed after a telegram of condolence had been sent to Mrs. W. J. Bryan.

THEATRES

"Born Rich," a First National picture which is now playing at the Princess theater is quite out of the ordinary and, in our estimation, one of the finest of this season's cinematic offerings. While the setting is that of wealth, the picture is as simple and unaffected as a letter from home, and it possesses an appeal that is as broad as the horizon.

In some mysterious manner the tale wriggled itself into our heart and succeeded in charming us and giving us more pleasure than his fallen to our lot in some time. Story, direction, acting, all were flawless; the combined excellence of it is responsible for a photoplay that is entertaining in the nth degree. It is a dramatic triumph, but it is just as noteworthy for its humanness and its bubbling humor—two ingredients that the perfect picture must possess to be successful.

Hughes Cornell, the author of the novel on which this production is based has given us a pulsating story of the rich, colorful and enticing. In the competent hands of Director Will Nigh, who made the production for Garrick Pictures Corporation, the tale has been transferred into a screen classic. And considerable credit is due to the highly capable cast assembled by Mr. Nigh, the roll including Claire Windsor, Bert Lytell, Doris Kenyon, Cullen Landis, J. Barney Sherry, Maud Turner Gordon, Frank Morgan and Jackie Ott.

"Born Rich" is a vigorously presented story, told smoothly and eloquently and swiftly. From beginning to end it is graphically portrayed, and we recommend it as one of the pictures that are well worthy seeing.

JAZZ CREDITED AS PROMOTER OF INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

ROME.—Those maligned American inventions—jazz music and dancing, constitute far more potent agencies in the cause of international understanding between America and the nations of the old world than suave diplomatic overtures and lengthy and flowery after dinner speeches.

Such is the opinion of a number of thoughtful Italians who, after visits of varying length in the United States have attempted to explain to their colder. She looked tired. There were dark circles beneath her eyes, lines of weariness in every feature. Smudges of paint showed upon her rumpled smock, and her nails were rough and ragged, obviously bit to the quick. She held out her hand, a large, thin, capable hand, stained with ink and paint and the smoke of countless cigarettes. Jerry's met it warmly. They smiled at each other.

"It's like Rhoda to dump you off in a strange city and wash her hands of you," she said, and the friendliness of her voice as she spoke of Rhoda's vagaries forbade a suspicion of malice. "She is working wickedly hard."

"Is she doing well? Does she work very hard?" Jerry asked, with great eagerness.

"Um, both. She works like the devil at hack jobs, to get a little money ahead so she can study."

"There's no money in art, and everyone knows it," said Mimi, musically peevish. "Rhoda and Theresa—they are both fools. I always say so. They should take up something new, something modern, something there is money in. It's all very well to talk of starving for art—starving for art, I call it."

Theresa laughed. "You should talk!" she said derisively. "I don't see that you've acquired such a fortune behind the footlights! Not that you're behind them very often, I must say." Then, Mimi, absolutely silenced, she turned to Jerry. "You want to fuss up a little after your journey, I suppose. Come up when you are ready, will you? I am on the third floor at the back. Be careful not to stumble, it's very dark. Will you come out to dinner with us, Mimi?"

"No, thanks, I have a date. Here are the keys, Miss Harmer—this is the door downstairs, this is your room. If you want anything, don't hesitate to ask. Come, Theresa, let the poor child shake off the dust of travel."

They went out, smiling back at her, closing the door after them. Their voices came to her from the narrow hallway.

"You look a mess," said Mimi discontentedly, but still with musical resonance. "You ought to be ashamed of yourself."

"Oh, don't bother me! I'm tired as the devil!"

"Why don't you go to bed, Theresa? You're such a fool to slave so. And nothing to come of it, either. Fame—puff, what's fame? A bank account is the only way to judge a talent!"

"Who's your date?"

"Phil Mills. Lie down, Theresa. I'll bring you a cup of tea. And for heaven's sake, wash your hands. I was ashamed for her to see your finger nails. You're certainly a mess. Do lie down a while, you look positively yellow."

Their voices receded as Theresa drew herself wearily up the stairs, and Jerry, standing in the center of her tiny new home, looked about her with quizzical, humorous eyes, and laughed. It was ridiculously small, ridiculously gaudy, ridiculously frugal in its very flamboyance. The bathroom was no more than a stuffy dark closet. The vaulted kitchenette was a shelf, a hole in the wall.

"Oh, Prudence!" laughed Jerry, thinking of her mother, sure she was happy, but there were tears in her eyes.

She set herself briskly to unpacking her small bag, folding things neatly away in the small drawers of the chiffonier. The two photographs in their handsome frames, Prudence and Jerry, she placed conspicuously on the dressing table. And then she suddenly took up the picture of her mother, and looked at it intently, questioning, almost passionately. She shook her head at last with sharp impatience, and placed it opposite that of her father once more.

"I don't get you, Prudence," she said.

In her intense moments, Jerry referred to her mother always as "Prudence," using the word not so much as a name, but rather as a statement of principle, a code of worship, a creed of religion. When she said, as she did very often, "I do not get you, Prudence," she meant only that Prudence was a depth of philosophy she could not fathom. It irritated her. If Prudence had been a scintillatingly brilliant, intellectual woman, Jerry felt she would not have minded her inability to reach the innermost recesses of her mother's thought. Prudence was no such thing, Jerry knew it.

After her unpacking, sweetened and refreshed with a perfumed bath in her tiny tub, she ran up the dark stairway to the third floor, turned back and tapped softly upon the door.

"Oh, d—n!" she heard, muttered fiercely, from within the room. And then apologetically Theresa called, "I spilled the ink! Come in, Miss Harmer, I can't get up for a minute. The place is a mess. I've just had a scrap with Mimi, and I'm a wreck. She wanted to clean up before you came, and I wouldn't let her, and we are both furious."

Theresa was down on her knees briskly mopping up the ink with a fresh towel. Jerry stood in the doorway, and looked about the room with eager girlish interest. If her studio downstairs appeared small to her, this one she thought quite unendurably so. There was no rug on the floor, nor curtain at the window. The couch was a tumbled mass of blankets and wrinkled sheets with a box of puffs and half a dozen magazines thrown upon it. The tepalcup was on the floor, its contents untasted. And there was a big easel turned to catch the best light. Theresa, just getting to her feet again, looked with amused eyes upon Jerry's frank inspection.

"Do—do you—"

countrymen the importance of understanding American modifications of culture and special conventions of Europe.

The dance floors of the large tourist hotels of Europe it is asserted far

"Uh," Theresa nodded. "Sleep here, work here, eat here—die here, too, I fancy. Haven't made my bed in heaven knows when. Mimi used to come in to do it for me, and bothered me to death, so I keep the door locked on her now. If you hear her pounding to get in, and me shouting for her to go away and mind her own business, don't be alarmed. It's a frequent occurrence. The place is a mess, Miss Harmer. I am almost ashamed of it myself."

She swept magazines, books and paints from a small straight chair and shoved it hospitably toward Jerry.

"Cigarette?"

"No, thanks."

Theresa lit one for herself nervously, tossing the burned match on the floor in a corner and tugging at the cigarette with a deep breath, almost gulping. She pulled off her smock.

"Excuse me a minute, and I'll wash my hands." As she washed, and then brushed back her dark tousled hair, which she did not take time to comb, but only fastened securely with additional pins, and scraped the paint from her skirt, she ran briskly on in the quick jerky fashion that Jerry found so fascinating.

"I don't usually work like this. I'm trying to get it finished—want it for an exhibition. I think it's rather good. The devil of it is that I have to dig along—for a meal ticket—while I'm trying to turn out something decent at the same time. Heaven knows I eat little enough—it shouldn't be hard to earn the kind of a living I usually live. Do you like Italian cooking? Or French? There are a dozen nice little places within a block or two. Oh, and there's a wild little Russian place—would you prefer that?"

"Oh, any place at all, I shall love any of them, all of them for that matter—wherever you wish to go. I'm really ashamed to take you away from your work, I know you are only stopping to please me."

"Oh, I dare say it's a very good thing. Come to think of it, haven't had a real dinner in heaven knows when. I'm sure I'm hungry."

She drew a small modish hat snugly about her ears, swept a wave of dark powder across her face, touched her lips with a bit of rouge and said she was ready. As they made their way carefully down the dark and winding stairs, Mimi's silken voice drifted out to them from behind a closed door.

"Oh, you bad boy, I believe you're trying to make love to me!"

Theresa laughed. "Little fool," she said. "Come in any time you like, day or night, you'll get a dose of that from Mimi. She runs them in relays, like the six-day bicycle race. Lord knows where she gets them—there don't seem so many men to spare."

Theresa took her to a small, quiet, basement room, where they had a generous, quiet, Italian dinner. They ate in silence. Theresa was hungry, very tired, and Jerry was stirred and breathless. There were others in the dining room, mostly girls, smartly dressed, all thin, all weary-eyed, all smoking.

"Don't you know them?" Jerry asked. "I thought every one knew every one else—in the Village."

"I don't know anybody," said Theresa. "I used to be 'way up on the West side. I came down here to please Mimi. But I like it."

The days that followed were happy, dreamy, fascinating days for Jerry. Rhoda telephoned to her twice, with profuse and tender apologies for her neglect, and said she was coming to see her right away. But she did not come. Jerry spent a great deal of time with Theresa, but Theresa was always working, always tired to distraction. Mimi, although she continued as warmly affable and friendly as at first, had little time or inclination for pretty young students of art beneath her roof. She slept until noon every day, had callers to tea every afternoon, and went out with some one every night in the week.

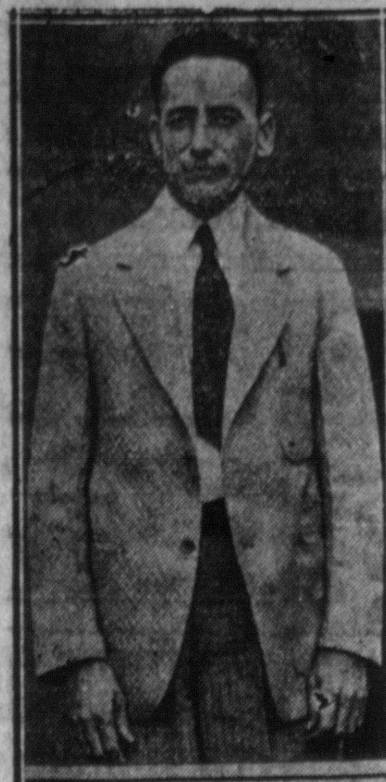

Jerry made proper arrangements for her lessons, and was enrolled in one of the beginners' classes of Graves McDowell, who, having previously acquired a reputation, was now eking out a hard existence by instilling the rudiments of his profession into young aspirants. Jerry attended his classes with a nice regularity and promptitude, and patiently did her utmost to follow his instructions. He told her kindly that she was doing very well indeed, let her come and go as she liked, and paid as little attention to her as possible.

She bought an easel of the most elaborate design and arranged it prettily in her small studio, where it quite overshadowed the modest, plaything bits of furniture already there. And she painted a little every afternoon, pleasantly, comfortably, complacently, without any of the hectic excitement which throbbled about her.

Even with all that, she seemed to have a great deal of time at her disposal. On the fifth day of her calendar desolation, she telephoned to her Aunt Connie's residence in Englewood, hoping to thrill the household with the news of her presence, and joyously anticipating a merry week-end in the lovely suburb with a tender aunt, a friendly uncle, and two frolicsome young cousins. She was greeted with the cold information that the entire family had gone to Europe on a hasty business trip, and the maid left in charge of the house did not know when they planned to return. Jerry felt quite saddened and abused. She was sorry she had not sent word in advance of her coming. She was sure Aunt Connie would have waited for her, would have postponed any kind of a business trip to Europe for the sake of being an oasis in the desert for "Prudence's baby."

meetings of young people, now are places where young American girls, properly chaperoned, meet young Europeans of the better classes. In the meetings of these young people, in their conversations and discussions, there is being brought to Europe the

"Evolution"

LOREN H. WITTNER, JR.

Charging that officials of the District of Columbia are allowing doctrines "disrespectful to the Bible" to be taught in the public schools of the capital, Loren H. Wittner, filed a petition for an injunction asking that the salaries of the school superintendent and biology instructor be withheld.

Tributes Are Paid From The Heart To Departed Chieftain

(Continued from page one)

the sidewalk and passed up the four cement steps to the grassy lawn, where rested the bronze casket. Conversation ceased and they were silent as they viewed the placid features of him whom they last had heard and cheered as hushed the Bible, in which they believed.

Few of the mvented to intrude upon the widow—even to carry messages of consolation and sympathy that they wished to convey. Relieved of the burden of preparation, which she had borne unaided, she found to-adom yte irm eot mywife day more time to review the past of her dead and to contemplate the tribute of affectionate acclaim millions of hearts were bestowing upon the memory of the alien leader.

Plans of the journey to Washington and interment in Arlington cemetery had been taken over by William E. Thompson, youthful secretary of the dead man, who was called from Virginia to join the widow of his former chief by news of the death.

The body will leave for Washington tomorrow morning and arrive on Thursday morning. After services Friday, probably at the Presbyterian church, burial will be in Arlington. President Coolidge has ordered flags on government buildings at the capital to be at half mast Friday.

Although surrounded by friends who sought to perform her every desire, Mrs. Bryan has been crushingly alone in her grief.

Mrs. Bryan went by automobile to Chattanooga this morning, accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Ruth Owen and Mrs. W. S. Jennings. The party left with the announcement the purpose was to give Mrs. Bryan and cutting and to do shopping.

Funeral services for Mr. Bryan will be held in Washington at the New York Avenue Presbyterian church.

"The Tennessee Case," an address prepared by Bryan in defense of Tennessee's anti-evolution law, which the late commoner was prevented from delivering at Dayton because of the early close of the trial, was made known to the world today by Mrs. Bryan. It contains 10,000 words and is strong in defense of the Christian religion and Biblical lore.

Evolution is indicted on five broad counts, the first of which is that it disputes the Biblical account of God's creation of man and shakes faith in the Bible as the word of God. He said evolution is at war with Christianity because religion is supernatural and that science needs religion to inspire, with lofty purpose, those who employ the force that are unloosed by science. Christianity cannot remain indifferent.

SMALL FIRE

A small home in the East Albany negro district was damaged by fire, near three o'clock this afternoon when the Albany fire department was given its fourth call in three days. Origin of the blaze was unknown.

The Best Place To Stop

214 East Walnut street, nice cool, airy bed rooms; hot and cold water, good meals. Prices reasonable. 21-6t.

Job Printing

We are equipped to handle any kind of Job Printing, and when it comes to Service, we can only refer you to our customers or ask that you give us a trial.

OFFICE CAT

Copyright 1921, by Edgar Allan Moss.

Boothblack: Mr. You are sure dusty. Man: Well, brush off ten cents worth.

A platitude is a familiar saying entirely surrounded by people who say "Ain't that the truth?"

The blind man said: "I picked up an axe and saw."

The deaf man said, "I bought a cow and heard."

It is said there has been found in St. Louis a lady who do not listen to gossip. Dollars to doughnuts she was born deaf.

Thus far Mr Ford has succeeded in every business he's undertaken, but just wait till he tackles the fancy poultry business.

I started out once to write the wrongs I had done, but was forced to postpone it until I could learn shorthand.

An ingenious young woman writes to a Heart and Home Column as follows: "I am engaged to a very nice boy who thinks the world of me, and so do I."

All women are good listeners when their husbands talk in their sleep.

A reckless driver is a fellow that passes you on the road in spite of all you can do.

Any man can prove that he has good sense by saying that you have.

One of the many things that Adam and Eve didn't have to worry about was being up on the latest styles.

A monocle is a pane of glass worn in one eye in order that its wearer may not see at one time any more than he is able to understand.

"I'm up against it now," thought the boy as he leaned against the building.

Tourist: So this is Texas? Puncher: Yah—where men are men. Tourist: And women are governors.

Mandy, have you seen Jane's fiance. No, mam; it ain't been in de wash yet.

One way to make enemies is to sing to your friends.

The hardest job in the world is a nearsighted drunken man with the palsy, attempting to ride a bicycle with warped wheels and no handle.

Street Crews Are Ditching Avenue

The Albany street crew, under the bars over Niagara Falls on a wire in a tornado.

One New York show has closed because the star had nothing on her but a houseful of eyes.

No Gladys, a remarkable woman isn't always the one who can make the most remarks.

Those who embark on the sea of matrimony must expect little squalls sooner or later.

A large city is a place where a man can carry a can without being snow-balled by small boys.

HONEST VALUES TRUTHFULLY ADVERTISED

Final Clearance Before Going to Market

2 for 1 Dress Sale

Buy One Summer Silk Dress at Our Regular Small-profit Price—Get a Second Dress of Same Value FREE.

Choose From Three Groups at $10.95 $16.95 $19.95

An astounding offer, to be sure. You will profit by getting a silk dress free. We will profit by clearing our racks of summer dresses before leaving on our first fall buying trip.

Two Persons May Buy On One Ticket and Divide the Price

40 MID-SUMMER HATS

Regularly priced up to $9.50; Final Clearance—choice at..... $1

GARNETT'S

617 Second Ave., Albany

SOMETHING NEW RECEIVED MOST EVERY DAY

Matlock's Cash Store

Women's, Misses' and Childrens

Oxfords and Slippers

Special 3-Day Sale Wednesday, Thursday and Friday

5¢

New Styles Patents Satins and Kids

Buy one pair at the regular price—get a second pair for 5 cents.

The Albany-Decatur Daily
418 Second Ave., Albany, Ala.
Published every afternoon, except Sunday, in Albany, Ala., by the TENNESSEE VALLEY PRINTING COMPANY, INC.
Entered as second-class matter February 26, 1912, at the postoffice at Albany, Ala., July 1, 1917, under Act of March 3, 1879.

W. R. SHELTON Founder-Editor
1912-1924
B. C. SHELTON Managing Editor
BENJAMIN BLOODWORTH Editor
R. T. SHEPPARD Business Manager

MEMBER OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to the use for re-publication of all news dispatches credited to it or not otherwise credited in this paper and also the local news published therein.
All rights of re-publication of special dispatches herein are reserved.

Telephone: Local 46 ORANGE Long Distance: 9902

SUBSCRIPTION RATES
By mail, daily, one month.....$9.00
By carrier, daily, per week.....$1.50
By mail, daily, three months.....$27.00
By mail, daily, six months.....$54.00
By mail, daily, one year.....$108.00

12 Years Ago From The Daily of TODAY

July 28, 1913

State Examiner Wilkinson has reported the books of Morgan county officials are kept correctly.

Company E, local military unit, will go into camp next week.

The Decatur Drug company has installed an electric carbonator, to keep water used in drinks in perfect and uniform condition.

Miss Mary Carter returned yesterday from the University of Alabama, where she has been taking a summer course.

Miss Margaret Moffett, of Birmingham, is the guest of Miss Leta Bess Harrison.

Mrs. R. E. Camper, of Huntsville, is the guest of Mrs. Eugene Morrow.

A DAILY PRAYER—May we have faith to believe that Thou canst send light into our blinded eyes, and Thy Spirit into our waiting hearts.

Consideration for others often forms the basis for a beautiful friendship.

Being ever consistent in argument may lead others to believe that you have a one track mind.

People who cannot see the viewpoint of others sometimes fail to anticipate a similar attitude within others and continue to broadcast to the whole world.

ALABAMA STATE FAIR WILL BE HELD IN BIRMINGHAM THIS FALL

The Alabama state fair, formerly a notable event in life of Alabama, again will be held in Birmingham in October. The reorganization of the Alabama State Fair Association has been perfected, funds raised for financing the project, and scores of workmen now are busy, day and night, getting the new concrete grandstand, exhibition hall and race track ready for the opening of the fair, less than two months hence.

Fairs, state, county and municipal, were great factors in community, county and state development a few years ago. In more recent years, these events lost some of their power to attract, but providing as they do important opportunities for exploitation of resources, there is no reason why fairs generally, and the Alabama state fair in particular, should not be worthwhile.

Birmingham people are going into the movement on a large scale. They are investing liberally of their means, their time and their talent to make the Alabama state fair the success it should be. They deserve the co-operation of every other section of the state. Morgan county always has taken an active interest in the state fair and this year, the county should "go the limit" to help in any way possible to make the event "bigger and better than ever."

The South is beginning to come into its own. People of all classes, from the individual wage earners, on up the line through the farming, industrial and professional lines, are looking to Dixie. There is no need for the various Southern states, to permit trifling jealousies to work to the disadvantage of each other and Alabama, as one state, has no fault to find with her sister states, but it does behoove Alabama to permit no opportunity to slip to impress upon eastern, western and northern residents, the many wonderful advantages that the state offers investors and workers.

The state fair is just another chance for us to gather together exhibits of these advantages.

DR. McREE URGES THAT ALL CITIZENS BE INOCULATED AGAINST TYPHOID FEVER

Morgan county has several cases of typhoid fever, health authorities here announce, but Morgan county is faring better than many other sections of the South, according to reports being tabulated by several health agencies.

Typhoid, which made its appearance in the South this year, after having been almost extinct for a long period, is general in 1925. No one area has a monopoly on the disease.

Dr. C. N. Leach, chief of the bureau of epidemiology of the state health department reports the registration of 668 cases of the disease for the six months of the year ending on July 1. This is a deplorable condition, but one which could be remedied if the general public would take the precautions it should take, he adds.

Dr. Leach is quoted by the Montgomery Journal as saying:

"Since it is possible for any one to be immunized against the disease, typhoid may be classed with small-pox and diphtheria as an optional disease. There is no excuse for any one of these three diseases occurring in a community, and their presence is an indication of neglect to take well known measures of prevention."

Leach holds that the fault lies chiefly with the people, who neglect to take the necessary precautions. He doubts less is right, but health officials can insist that the people take precautions and sanitary officials in the affected areas can see to it that conditions which would contribute to development of the disease are remedied. The responsibility appears really to rest upon more than one class.

In this connection readers of The Daily are referred to a news story appearing in this newspaper Saturday, in which Dr. H. C. McRee, Morgan county health officer, urges citizens to be inoculated immediately. The health officer is doing his best to acquaint people with the way in which they may protect themselves. The sanitary workers connected with the health unit here are bending every effort to locate and eliminate any condition which might have a tendency to perpetuate or communicate the disease, but they must have the co-operation of the public.

Dr. McRee points out that during the war, every person entering the service of the government was forced to be inoculated against typhoid and vaccinated against small pox. In addition to the government employees, there was widespread inoculation and vaccination of civilians. This, naturally, greatly reduced the number of possible victims of the disease, and, as a consequence, reduced the number of actual victims.

Since that time, people have grown careless in the matter of protection of health. Many still believe their war-time inoculation gives them immunity against typhoid. In most cases the period of immunity has expired, or is expiring, giving the patient only partial immunity, if any at all.

The time has come to be inoculated again. Let us all co-operate with the health department to the end that Morgan county again may be free of this disease.

EVERYONE SEEMS TO KNOW A GREAT DEAL ABOUT HOW TO SPEND A MILLION OR TWO

The American public appears to be forgetful of the difficulties Brewster, of fiction fame, found in spending a million or so within a definite time. Leopold Schepp, of New York, announced lately that he had a few extra millions he would like to spend in some manner which would accomplish good. Newspapers published the information and now Mr. Schepp is being deluged with suggestions on how to spend his money.

The Selma Times-Journal describes his plight as follows:

"Mr. Leopold Schepp, the New York philanthropist, who told the newspapers that he had a few idle millions in the banks which he wanted to give away, but had not been able to evolve the plan or select the beneficiaries and wanted 'suggestions' to aid him in properly directing his benefactions, has been 'swamped' under an avalanche of mail and has gone into hiding until the storm blows over. Mr. Schepp says he has 'withdrawn all bids' for help and will work out his own problem. In drawing up an outline of his ideas about giving away money, Mr. Schepp says he does not approve of leaving large sums of money to a few persons as it tends to make the recipients lazy in body and mind. He would prefer to equip a number of individuals so that they would have a better chance in life. If we can effect his object in some way which at the same time will lay a foundation for the permanent betterment of society generally, he points out, 'that of course, would be wonderful.'"

"Mr. Schepp has established a $2,500,000 trust fund to aid deserving boys and he has distributed $3,500,000 in individual donations, lump-sum gifts and pensions. Philanthropy is a subject calling for much thought and wide counsel he realizes. An individual with no experience in the matter might give away a million dollars in a way that no positive good would result but on the contrary an infinite lot of harm."

"The opportunities for practical philanthropy are many, but not as many as might be imagined have recognized or given thought to them. This wealthy New Yorker received a multiplicity of suggestions promptly. Still, as pointed out, not many of them may show much thought on the subject."

"John D. Rockefeller was once quoted as saying that it required more brains to give away money properly, than it did to make it."

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN WILL BE LAID TO REST IN ARLINGTON

With the mortal remains of America's immortals, the body of William Jennings Bryan will be laid to rest in Arlington. His interment there will be in keeping with his last request, made to a Washington friend, that wherever he died, he wanted to be removed to Arlington cemetery and his body placed there for final interment.

Mr. Bryan's death in Dayton, Tenn., Sunday afternoon was in marked contrast to the turbulence of his public career. Remarking "I'm so sleepy," he bade his wife goodbye and entered the solitude of his room for a quiet Sunday afternoon rest. He was dead when loving hands sought to rouse him a few hours later.

William Jennings Bryan had the happy faculty of making whatever movement he was interested in and working in behalf of seem to be virtually a crusade. It was his appealing personality, his natural ability to lift audiences away from their physical surroundings and transplant them into another realm which first won for him the democratic presidential nomination and the applause of a nation. This characteristic brought men to him in throngs. Early in life he cemented many friendships which lasted even unto the day of his death. As a natural consequence, the many battles he has been engaged in did not fail to alienate from him many whose opinion he cared nothing about and some whom he, no doubt, would have wanted to think better of him.

When Mr. Bryan first attained a place of prominence in the political arena, the fight for prohibition had not become the vital issue it later developed into, but comparatively early in his career, he espoused the dry cause and he served the prohibition movement earnestly and honorably over a long period. The services he rendered to prohibition are incalculable.

His earlier efforts were directed toward economic reform, but later Mr. Bryan began work on things which were more in the nature of moral reforms. His last undertaking was his fight against the modern tendency to loosen the hold on the public's mind of fundamental principles in religion.

The trial at Dayton probably had a great deal to do with the death of the commoner. He labored tirelessly to present his arguments against evolution. To a man of his age, the trying conditions under which the hearing was conducted, must have been a severe tax, indeed, on his physical resources.

His clash on the witness stand with Clarence Darrow, attorney for the defense, was the sensational close of a sensational proceeding. Mr. Bryan insisted, during his testimony, that the Bible and the Christian religion was good enough for him in life, and it was good enough for him in death, and he sought to find no substitute in any competing faith.

In death, Mr. Bryan furnished a striking example of the great peace to be found by those who follow in service the teachings of the Nazarene. In sleep, his soul was taken and the earthly career was ended of an outstand-

Today—By Arthur Brisbane

(Continued from page one)

books worth reading. Carnegie gave libraries, but no books, which is like giving to the hungry a plate without food.

THE difficulty of course would be to make the people who need them read the books. But nothing important except knowledge and thought stimulated by knowledge and so called "heavy" books could be sent condensed, rewritten and illustrated to make reading easy.

IF YOU GAVE away ten million copies of Zeller's "philosophy" more than nine million copies would remain unread. But every one of the ten million could be interested in something about Thales, Socrates, Aristotle and the rest. They would like to know that Thales divided the year into 365 days and was one of 7 wise men of Greece.

That would arouse interest in the other six wise men.

Many would be interested in Thales' alleged Phoenician ancestry, which would mean that he had Celtic blood. Others envy his ability, more than five hundred years before the birth of Christ, to predict the solar eclipse which occurred about 583 B. C.

THALES called water the origin of all things, anticipating by twenty-five hundred years Darwin's statement that all life began in the water.

Those less interested in astronomy, than in religion would read with interest that Thales got his teaching from the priests of Egypt others that he was the father of philosophy, and of geometry as we understand them.

TEN MILLIONS would not read many of the dialogues of Socrates written by his pupil Plato. But all the ten million would be interested in the description of Socrates dying of poison, taken voluntarily because he wouldn't break the law to escape from his sentence of death.

And many among ten millions would be interested in the picture of Socrates, perfectly calm on the battlefield, carrying to safety and saving the life of his pupil Alcibiades and demanding that the prize for bravery be given to Alcibiades, instead of taking it himself.

IF MR. SCHEPP wants to make money useful, let him spread information, or as Dante said, "Give light, and the people will find their money to buy bread for them or establish old folks homes."

COUNT CIPPICO, Italian senator and member of Mussolini's party tells an audience in Massachusetts, that war is a cruel necessity. Italy he says, will not be deceived by false hope or propaganda for disarmament.

The Italian senator is right in his belief that it is foolish to talk about abolishing war now.

You can't rely on the kindness of the wolves to save sheep. As long as there are individuals and nations of the wolf type, those wolf types will fight, if you let them.

BUT let the senator look farther ahead and he may see a world with war abolished. Fortunately intelligence and justice rule the world.

Senator Cippico will notice that deed still exists in abundance where the wolves died out. Deer help and warn each other.

Once, in the streets of Rome Patricians of the old days and noblemen of more recent days rode out with armed followers accompanying them. A fight to the death might start at any corner. That no longer exists among individuals in big cities, and some day that situation will no longer exist among nations anywhere on earth.

A FEW in the cities today would gladly attack, kill and rob. But they are unimportant minority. The police take care of them.

The day is coming when a higher civilization and an efficient world police will establish the peace.

It won't come for some time however, as long as there are wolves the wise men and the wise nations will have ready the machinery necessary to dispose of them.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE says he hopes the visit of our fleet to Australia and the far Pacific will emphasize cordial relations which now exist between the United States and the other nations of the world. The president refers of course, to all nations of Europe, Asia and Africa.

THE average American hopes that Australia will see in the visit of our fleet, not only an expression of friendship, but recognition of the important work that the Australians and New Zealanders are doing in holding their great section of the earth's surface for the white races.

THERE is no hostility to any other race in the hope of the white man that his will remain the dominating race.

Mr. Wise Coal Buyer

Order Piper Coal
NOW

Price goes up 25c per ton August 1

MALONE COAL AND GRAIN CO.

Phone Albany 13

July
Look Clearance
200 Pair Ladies and Misses'

Slippers and Oxfords

Closing Out
Regardless of Former Price 98c

It's a clean-up of broken lines to get our shoe department ready for Fall. Satins, Patents, Kids, Calfs, Suedes and combinations, also White Canvas. Good styles. All sizes in the group. Look them over. If you find a style you like in a size to fit, you will save several dollars. All sales final.

H. WOHL

412 Bank Street

Decatur

Matlock's Cash Store

Men's and Young Men's Summer Suits

Special
3-Day Sale
Wednesday, Thursday and Friday

5¢

Palm Beach, Mohair and Tropical Worsteds

Buy one suit at the regular price and get a second suit for only 5 cents.

SOCIETY.

Margaret C. Shelton—Phone Decatur 862.

MRS. R. A. NUNN PRESENTS PUPILS IN RECITAL

Mrs. R. A. Nunn entertained a few friends when she presented her pupils in recital last week at her home and on this occasion it was attractively decorated with summer flowers setting a color scheme of yellow and green that was further emphasized in the refreshments served to the thirty present. Mrs. W. J. Winton presided at the punch bowl and served punch to the guests upon arrival. The program given was very much enjoyed, then pupils showing talent and training. It took place in the following order:

Little Things by Porter, Mabel Brittain.

Golden Stars by Streabog, George Nunn.

Cowslip by Smallwood, Alma Pfaff.

London Bridge by Spaulding, George Nunn.

Chopsticks by De Lull, Lynelle Hazelwood.

Flower Song by Lang, Ruby Brittain.

Rastic Dance by Howell, Loraine Winton.

Anvil Chorus by Verda, Frances English.

Maiden Prayer by Badardewski, Marnie Ryan.

Reading "Bill Smith." Miss Georgia Nunn.

Duet "Humoresque" by Dvorak, Marnie Ryan and Mrs. Nunn.

PICNIC FOR MISSES SCHEUSSLER AND GILL

Misses Mary Agnes Gill of Fayetteville, Tenn., and Elizabeth Scheussler of Wadley, Ala., were the inspiration for a lovely swimming and picnic party on Monday evening at Riverview Drive. Both of the honorees are the house guests of Miss Agnes Giles at her home on Church street.

After a very enjoyable swim the guests were served a very bountiful supper on the bank of the river and the present were besides:

or guests were: Miss Agnes Giles, Miss Agnes Cassels, Miss Marjory Pointer, Miss Margaret Broadus, Miss Lucille Giles and Messrs Julian and Norman Harris, Skeggs Crawford, Gene Gibson, Lamar Lee, Robin Thomas, Walter Morris, Bruce Black and Edwin Lewis. They were chaperoned by Miss Lou Giles.

EVENING BRIDGE PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. Max King were honored at a party given on Monday evening by Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Jones Jr., at their home on East Vine Street.

Bridge was the diversion of the evening and Mrs. King who made highest score was awarded a souvenir. Mrs. Jones presented the guests of honor a memento of the delightful evening.

At a late hour ices and cake were served to the following: Mr. and Mrs. Max O. King, Mr. and Mrs. John G. McGeehe, Miss Mabel Nesbit, Mrs. John Cooper Adams, of Loredo, Texas, Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Cowden and Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Bloodworth.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Westmoreland and son Bruce Jr., of Florence were the weekend guests of friends and relatives here.

Mrs. W. M. Bailey and two sons, Wilbur, Jr., and Foster Pointer, accompanied by Sam Malone, Jr., left Sunday for a short visit to friends in Florence.

Mrs. L. A. Neill and daughter, Miss Louise, have returned from a visit to Montecarlo. Miss Neill will leave soon to enter Wellesby.

Miss Gussie Green has returned to the city and has taken charge of the ladies ready-to-wear department at Buttreys.

Mrs. John McGeehe expects to leave soon for an extended visit to relatives in Atlanta, Ga.

Mrs. Elza McNeese and son, Julian, have returned from a two weeks visit in Memphis, Tenn.

Miss Kate Nunn of Florence arrived on Tuesday afternoon to be the guest of relatives.

Mrs. F. H. Pointer and daughter, Miss Marjory returned on Monday from Montecarlo, Tenn., where they spent the past ten days.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Beard and daughter Miss Marjory, except to leave next week for Montecarlo, Tenn., and other points for an extended stay.

Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Malone and Mrs. F. H. Pointer motored to Huntsville on Tuesday to spend the day.

Judge and Mrs. W. T. Lowe motored home on Monday from Pulaski, Tenn., where they have been the guests of relatives.

MRS. ALLISON COMPLIMENTED

A delightful affair of Monday evening was the bridge compliment to Mrs. L. R. Allison of Meridian, Miss., who is visiting Mrs. J. M. Hatfield when the latter was a gracious hostess at the Hatfield home on Johnston street. Specimen zinnias added bright and attractive touches to the interior of the home.

Grouped around the bridge tables for the evening's game were Mrs. Allison, Mrs. A. C. Clarke of Nashville, Tenn., who is visiting Mrs. Spencer Garnett, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gray Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Robertson, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Peden, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Finch, Dr. and Mrs. A. Perolio Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Wolfe, Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Garnett, Mrs. O. P. Stinson, Mrs. Early Phinizy, Mrs. J. W. Thornton, Mrs. B. A. Turner, Mrs. J. R. Doss and Miss Edith Doss. W. S. Finch made highest score among the men and was the recipient of the men's prize and Mrs. B. A. Turner received the ladies souvenir. Mrs. Allison was presented a gift.

Late in the evening a delicious plate salad course was served at the tables by Misses Thelma Hatfield, Sarah Blackwell, Peggy Davis and Margaret Harrison.

CIRCLE MISSION STUDY MEETING

The James Duncan Memorial Circle of the First Methodist church met on Monday afternoon at the church in the ladies parlors and enjoyed their regular mission study meeting. A good attendance was reported.

The devotionals were led by Mrs. L. K. Kilgore and the mission study lesson given by Mrs. Blackwell, who rendered it in a very beautiful manner her subject for the afternoon being "House without Walls."

The meeting closed with prayer in concert.

MRS. COLLINS TO BE HONOREE AT BRIDGE PARTY

Mrs. W. M. Voorhies will entertain at bridge on Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock at her home on Gordon Drive for Mrs. Collins of Washington, D. C. who is visiting Mrs. R. H. Wolcott.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Master Charles Greene, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Green, will celebrate his fifth birthday on Thursday afternoon with a party at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Callahan on Ferry street.

Mrs. Collins of Washington, D. C., is the house guest of her aunt, Mrs. R. H. Wolcott.

Mrs. Jackson Lee and children of Birmingham have returned here after a visit to her sister, Mrs. J. R. Nicholson.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Jolly have returned from a visit to relatives and friends in Knoxville, Tenn.

Miss Geannie Chenault is expected home on Thursday from Florence where she is visiting friends.

Mrs. R. L. Allison will leave on Thursday morning for her home in Meridian, Miss., after being the guest of Mrs. J. M. Hatfield for about two weeks.

Miss Dorothy Dodd is visiting in Athens, Ala., and will later go to Iuka, Miss., to be the guests of friends.

Misses Virginia and Allene Cross left Sunday morning for a visit to points in Tennessee, Kentucky and Georgia.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hendrix and family are expected home on Friday from a motor trip to visit relatives in Marianna, Ark. They will be accompanied by Miss Mary Battle Hendrix who has been there on an extended visit.

S. H. Malone will leave Thursday for Asheville, N. C. to attend a convention of insurance men.

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Patterson and Mrs. J. S. Patterson returned home on Tuesday morning from Birmingham where they motored and spent the weekend.

Advertise

in this Paper.

Advertise

in this Paper.

Advertise

in this Paper.

Advertise

in this Paper.

Advertise

in this Paper.

Advertise

in this Paper.

Advertise

in this Paper.

Advertise

in this Paper.

Advertise

in this Paper.

Advertise

in this Paper.

Advertise

in this Paper.

Advertise

in this Paper.

Advertise

in this Paper.

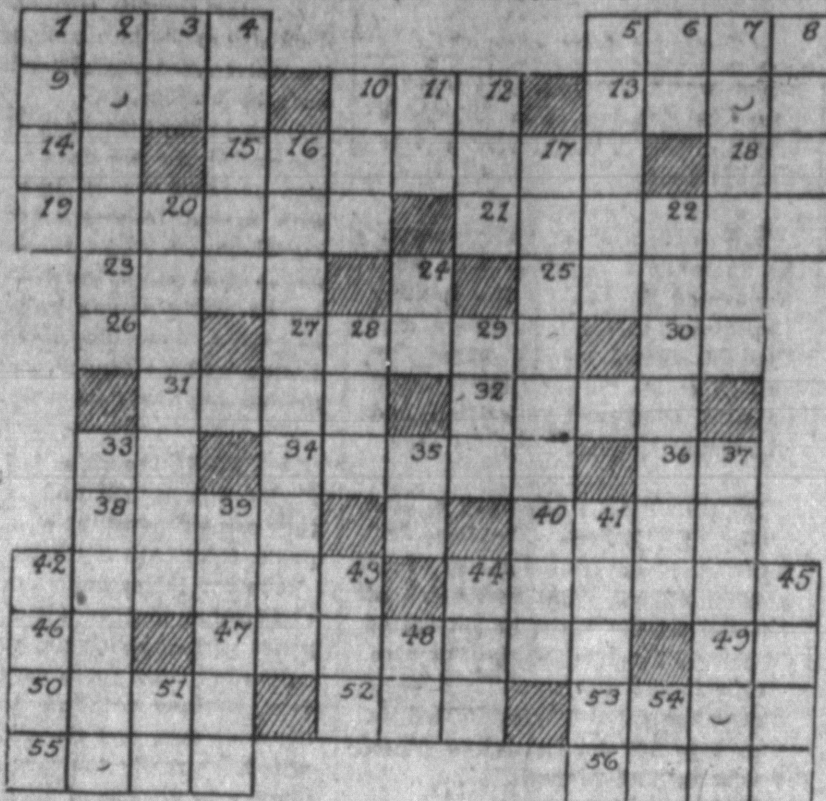

Advertise

in this Paper.

Today's Cross-Word Puzzle

A SQUARED BULL'S EYE—Puzzle No. 241

Edited by J. C. BOYD

HORIZONTAL

1—coarse hominy
5—tribe
9—urgent entreaty
10—bring forth, as young
13—hollow
14—prefix
15—gold coin formerly coined in certain European countries
18—pronoun
19—rude Indian pictures or posts
21—relatives
23—boundary
25—fishspears (obs.)
26—a contempt (abbr.)
27—very small body of land
30—part of "to be"

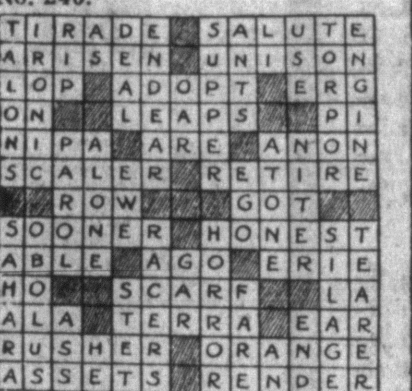

31—letter of the ancient Scandinavian language
32—stagger
33—provided that
34—anxious
36—Middle Western State (abbr.)
38—change the direction of 40—hostelries
42—home of a king
44—in the night-time (poet)
46—powerful Hebrew deity
47—harmonizing
49—fifty-one
50—measure of duration
52—negative
53—in bed
55—vapory clouds driven by the wind
56—nostril (obs.)

VERTICAL

1—petty quarrel
2—apportions
3—objective case of I
4—written instrument
5—state of gladness
6—behold
7—foreign-born, un-naturalized residents of a country
8—snare
10—feminine suffix
11—near
12—prefix used in the sense of not 16—nearness
17—covering with straw
20—trying
22—top of a room
24—chemical suffix meaning "belonging to the series of alcohols"

28—large body of water
29—before
33—sloping printed letter
35—move
37—mason work of squared stones
39—waxed furious
41—first month of Jewish ecclesiastical year
42—fondles
43—even (poet)
44—insect
45—rise and fall of water
48—maiden beloved by Jupiter
51—Greek letter
54—college degree

Herewith is solution to Puzzle No. 240.

How to Solve Puzzle.

The best way to solve this crossword puzzle is to run over the list of horizontal and vertical synonyms in search of evident or "easy" words. If horizontal, the word you are looking for must extend crosswise from the number to the first shaded stop on the right; if vertical, it must extend downward from the number to the first shaded stop below. When finished, the words should read equally well crosswise and downward.

CONSUMPTION PULP DROPS 1.8 PERCENT

The State Is a Small Consumer, So Figures Show

(Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 28—Consumption of pulp wood in the United States dropped 1.8 percent in 1924, as compared with the figures for the amount used in 1923, a report compiled by the department of commerce from data compiled in co-operation with the department of agriculture shows. The amount used in 1924 was 5,788,083 cords and the consumption in 1923 was 5,372,870 cords. The 1924 figures being compiled from reports from 239 mills and the 1923 report from data from 241 mills.

Production of wood pulp dropped 1.7 per cent in 1924 as compared with the 1923 production. The 1924 production is given as 8,723,266 tons and the production in 1923 as 8,788,672 tons.

Alabama was a comparatively small consumer and producer of pulp wood in both years. The largest amount of pulp was produced in Maine in both 1923 and 1924. This state produced 895,451 tons in 1924 and 901,007 tons in 1923. Maine also led in the amount of pulp wood consumed, using 1,234,172 cords in 1924 and 1,273,794 cords in 1923.

Wisconsin was second both in production of pulp and the use of the wood necessary to make it. In 1924 this state used 1,071 cords of such wood, and in 1923, 1,043,056 cords. Pulp produced by this state totaled 609,081 tons in 1924 and 577,993 tons in 1923.

The report issued by the department of commerce shows that domestic spruce was used more extensively than any other kind of pulp wood in both 1924 and 1923. 2,079,182 cords of this timber being used in 1924 and 2,195,395 cords in 1923. This was more than twice as much as the amount of hemlock, the next wood in volume, that was used. Imported spruce, yellow pine and balsam fir followed in the order named.

Shall Recovering From Operation

The many friends of Rev. and Mrs. William Shall of Bryan, Texas, who lived in Decatur for about nine years, William Shall having been pastor of First Presbyterian church until four years ago, will be interested to know that Dr. Shall, who is still a reserve officer, has just recently undergone a serious major operation having one kidney removed in the base hospital at Fort Sam Houston at San Antonio, Texas.

He is doing nicely now, so his wife has written friends here, and will be out of the hospital within a few weeks. His many friends here hope that his complete recovery will be rapid.

While living here Dr. Shall was a popular minister who proved to be a most useful citizen and during the war became a chaplain.

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: We are two young girls in love with two nice young men. We are engaged, but have decided that we are too young to get married. But the boys don't want to put it off any longer, for they say they can't live without us. Will you please advise us what to do?

BOOTS AND TILLIE: If you feel that you have aims and interests in common with these young men, and you are mature enough to undertake the responsibilities of marriage, there is no reason why you should delay your wedding. As long as your marriage is founded on mutual love and understanding combined with common tastes and interests, you will be happy. My best wishes to all of you.

Did It Ever Occur to You

That price is not the first thing to be considered in a job of printing! Throwing type together in a haphazard way does not require any knowledge of the printing art. That isn't the kind of work you want. But artistic typography is credit to any concern. Our knowledge of printing gained by long experience enables us to produce

Attractive Printing for Every Purpose

Don't order anything in this line until you call on us.

COTTON STATES TO BEGIN TOURNEY 1ST

Precedes The Regular Southern Champ Games

(Associated Press)

ANNISTON, Ala., July 28—Entries for the annual cotton states tennis tournament which will be held on the clay courts of the Country Club here starting August 1, have already started coming in, tournament officials announce. It is expected that at least 30 entrants will play in the singles eliminations that are to be staged the first day. The doubles are expected to attract from 13 to 20 teams, most of them to be made up of singles entrants paired off.

The cotton states tournament precedes the Southern tournament, which in turn decides the Southern champions. The winners and strong contenders in the cotton states tourney are expected to enter the Southern tournament, the first meet acting more or less as an elimination affair for the Southern.

Indications at the present time point to an impressive field for the tournament that will be played here. Among the possible entrants are J. A. Caldwell Jr., 1924 Southern champion and first ranking Southern player and Dan Murray, 1924 Cotton States champion and third ranking player of the South.

Atlanta will be represented by five players, local players say. They are in addition to Caldwell, F. C. Owens, second ranking Southern player; J. D. Hunt, fourth ranking player; Berry Grant, sixteenth in rank; and Jack Mooney, seventeenth in rank.

Two players only are expected from New Orleans, but local experts say that the Crescent City will be ably represented in the two that are expected. They are Murray, the 1924 winner and third ranking player, and Arthur Waters, fifth ranking star.

A. M. Johnson, of Chattanooga sixth ranking player and H. Wellford, Memphis, East Tennessee champion in 1924, are expected to represent the Volunteer state.

WANTED
A number of experienced sales ladies.
Apply in person only
At Once
ZIFF'S STORE
Decatur

We Are Now In Our New Location
PALACE CAFE
"A Good Place to Eat"

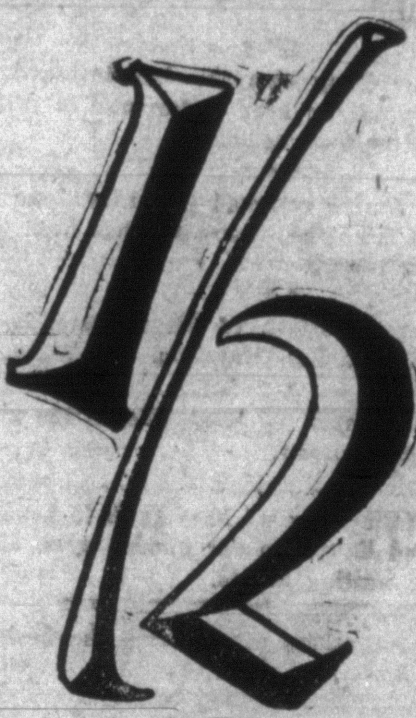

The Home Of Peggy Paige
Russell's
MILADY'S TOGGERY

418 Bank Street Decatur

All Summer Silk Dresses

CHOICE

PRICE

Final Clearance This Week Before Going To Market

$15 Silk Dresses—$17.50 Silk Dresses—$19.75 Silk Dresses—$22.50 Silk Dresses—$32.50 Silk Dresses—

Choose your dress, look at the price tag and pay just half.

ONE-HOUR SALE

Between 7 and 8 tomorrow night

Any Spring or Summer Hat

Models formerly priced as high as $16.50..... $1

NECKWEAR AND BELTS—ONE-HALF PRICE

CHILDREN'S DRESSES

Sizes 2 to 6. Gingham, Broadcloth and English Prints. Short sleeves. $1.25 to $3.95 values..... $1

New Fall Hats

IN BOTH

Felt and Kid

are now being shown in all the Fall colors.

Something bright and new to wear at home or abroad, and very inexpensive.

Drop in and let us show them to you.

The Princess Shoppe

"The Right Hat For The Right Woman"

NEXT TO PRINCESS THEATRE, ALBANY

DAILY CLASSIFIED ADS

Fill your wants in shorter time at less cost than any other medium.

RATES

One insertion, one cent a word; three insertions, two cents a word. Minimum 25 cents per insertion.

TERMS

Cash with order except business firms having accounts.

TRY A

THREE-TIME AD

It costs less and produces more. You get three insertions at the price of two.

TO EXCHANGE—Four room house rented for $12.00 as part cash payment on better home in Albany to cost around $2,000.
J. A. THORNHILL

FOR RENT—1009 Perry St., Decatur, 218-640 Jackson St., 1203 3rd Ave., South, 151-6. 1604-1608-1723-1802 1804 5th Avenue South, 1613, 6th Ave. South 1610, 4th Ave. South.
J. A. THORNHILL

FOR SALE

FOR SALE—Gas range in good condition. Call Albany 704-J. 28-3t.

FOR SALE—Young Jersey cow and calf. See Sam Frank, Decatur, Ala. J 25-3t

FOR RENT OR SALE—My home on Grant street, will rent as a whole or in two apartments, also my furniture for sale. Mrs. W. L. Gover, 316 Grant street. July 27-6t

FOR SALE—Brand new Ford roadster. Price attractive. Phone Albany 786. 27-3t.

FOR SALE—Windshields, any cars by C. E. Malone. 27-4t

FOR SALE—Sorghum mill and copper pan in good condition. See J. L. Echols. 15-4t.

FOR RENT

FOR RENT—To couple, two furnished downstairs rooms, newly papered. Sink, gas stove, back porch, private entrances. Garage if desired. 507 West Moulton St. 27-3t.

FOR RENT—House and five acres of land on Danville pike, 1 1/2 miles from L. & N. Shops. L. B. Wyatt & Son. 25-6t

FOR RENT—Brick hotel in Courtland, 18 rooms, running water, electric lights, Frigidaire. Only hotel in town. Apply to P. O. Box 162 Courtland, Alabama. 24-6t.

FOR RENT—Modern six room house 820 Oak street. Possession given August the first. J. T. Towns, 110 Church street or Phone Decatur 138. 23-6t.

MISCELLANEOUS

SILENTPHONE TEACHERS—Five to be chosen by examination from our first graduating class, for other universities to be established in nearby cities. Salary $100 monthly University of Silentphoning. Scott Building, Decatur, Ala., William Orr, President. 27-12t.

Bachelor's Hall

In nice private home, best location in town. All conveniences, excellent home cooking, can accommodate several men. 214 East Walnut street. 21-6t.

Value received at small profit. A chicken dinner. 607 Second avenue Wednesday 6 o'clock. Auspices Central Baptist church. Plate 50 cents. 28-1t.

MOVING DAY?—Your furniture handled with care by experienced movers; long trips a specialty.—McCulloch Transfer Co., Phone Albany 175. 25-6t.

We sell those famous Columbia Graphones, Brunswick Talking Machines, Carryolas, Portophones and many other makes of the wild cat variety in used machines and your credit is fine. The Little Furniture Store, T. T. Mason, Prop. 312 Bank street. 24-12t.

MONEY TO LOAN—We have $1000 ready for quick loan on 1st mortgage real estate. L. B. Wyatt & Son. 25-3t.

TILLIE THE FOILER

By Russ Westover

ANY LACK OF THYROID CAN BE OVERCOME

Proper Regulation of an Irregular Gland May Make a Person Normal Mentally, But Only an Expert Should Give Gland Extract.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

EVEN though there has been a reasonable foundation and experience of health, middle life may witness remarkable failure of strength and vigor. One of the peculiar ailments appearing at 35, 40 or 50 years of age, is known as "myxedema."

This condition is the opposite of goitre. In that disease the gland surrounding the "Adam's apple" in the neck, becomes very much thickened and enlarged. In myxedema this gland—the thyroid gland—withered and grows thin and small. It is not unusual for tissues which have become greatly inflamed and thickened, to have their blood vessels pressed upon by the new growth. In consequence the blood supply becomes materially lessened. Without sufficient nourishment to maintain the growth of tissue, it begins to wither and grows thin.

The thyroid is one of the so-called "ductless glands." It manufactures a material known as the "colloid substance." This possesses the property of stimulating the brain, the heart and other vital organs. In certain types of goitre there is altogether too much stimulation.

In myxedema, you see, the thyroid has grown small and hard. No longer does it manufacture the quantities of colloid substance which previously generated energy and "pep." Vital function is seriously impaired. It is remarkable what changes take place in the very looks of the victims. The face grows broader. The tongue and lips get thick. The face looks heavy and stupid. The skin is sallow and the cheeks are flushed. The hair falls out and the teeth grow bad. Even the hands and feet become big and flat. The skin of the whole body thickens and becomes acrid and dry.

Worse than the physical changes is the disturbance in the mind. Alertness disappears. It is replaced by dullness, slowness of thought and stupidity. There is no loss of life left. On the contrary there may be gloominess of spirit and sometimes an inclination to commit suicide.

If myxedema attacks a child it stunts the growth. Dwarfism may result. The face is ugly and may be deformed. This type of the disease is called cretinism. In operating for acute giant cells must be exercised not to be too far for fear of producing myxedema. But whether the disease is due to operation or to disease, it is a serious ailment.

I trust I have made clear that the symptoms of myxedema are due to a lack of the thyroid secretion. This lack is made up by feeding thyroid extract. But nobody should take thyroid extract without the advice of a doctor as to its need and the dose.

Answers to Health Queries

MRS. M. A. H. Q.—What causes me to have pains across the small of my back?

A.—This may be due to a number of conditions. It would be wise to have your doctor advise you in the matter after a personal examination.

M. J. L. Q.—How can one reduce?

A.—Weight reduction is chiefly a matter of self control as regards diet. For full particulars send stamped, self-addressed envelope and repeat your question.

VERA K. Q.—What do you advise for a scar left from a burn?

A.—If it does not disappear in a reasonable length of time see your doctor about the advisability of trying X-ray to make the trouble less noticeable.

Dr. Copeland will answer for readers of this paper questions on medicine, hygiene and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. Where the subject of a letter is such that it cannot be published in this column, Dr. Copeland will, when the question is a proper one, write you personally if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed. Address ALL INQUIRIES to Dr. Royal S. Copeland, in care of this office. Copyright, 1925, by Newsworld Feature Service, Inc.

DR. COPELAND

GRAND JURY WILL INVESTIGATE DEATH

Witnesses Are Called In Probe Of Killing Of Mrs. Lawson

(Associated Press)

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 28.—The present grand jury will investigate Thursday the mysterious death of Mrs. Bessie Lawson, pretty saleswoman, found dying on Highland avenue Saturday night and in connection with which David Gore, coal operator, is held on a charge of manslaughter.

Witnesses have been summoned, it was learned Tuesday and while the names of the witnesses were not given out, it was intimated the same witnesses would appear before the grand jury that testified before the secret inquest held Sunday afternoon.

Additional witnesses are expected, however, as the grand jury will give police officers an opportunity to testify and present anyone they may wish.

City detectives did not testify at the inquest which resulted in bond being allowed Gore and when they heard of the action, expressed dissatisfaction with the decision in the case. They have intimated they have evidence in their possession which will justify the holding of Gore on a more serious charge than second degree manslaughter.

Another development Tuesday was the arrival, in Birmingham, of Mrs. Gore, her two children and her mother from Dallas, Texas. Mrs. Gore was visiting her mother on Tuesday when she received word of her husband's arrest Saturday night on a murder charge. Neither Mrs. Gore nor her mother would discuss the affair Tuesday, but it is believed the wife will stand by her husband, although the charge against him followed a drinking party at a downtown hotel and a night ride with Mrs. Lawson.

Mrs. Gore was reported to be greatly disturbed.

All Over Alabama

Installation of steam driven generators at the Greensboro power plant has been completed increasing the city's power supply 300 per cent. The plant is owned by the Alabama Water company.

The annual short course in domestic science held at Gadsden by Miss Grace Gardner, chief instructor at Auburn, was attended by 75 girls from various parts of Etowah county.

A contract has been signed for a Talhoun county fair this fall by directors of the Anniston chamber of commerce. Thomas P. Littlejohn, of Troy, was given the contract.

Fire destroyed an automobile garage and store house at Troy, causing a loss of approximately $40,000. It was the second disastrous fire experienced by the city within a month.

for Steady Nerves!

Riding a girder is not a job for a nervous man.

BUT no one is nervous by choice. There is a way that you may so strengthen your body that the nervous system will be cushioned on sound muscles and flesh. But this condition will not come about unless you have rich red-blood-cells. Red-blood-cells are the most important thing in all the world to each of us. More red-blood-cells! That's what you need when your nerves give away and you cannot control yourself.

S.S.S. will prove to you its "Why" and "How" reason. Since 1926 S.S.S. has helped thousands. Because S.S.S. does build blood-power, it builds you up when you are run-down, clears the system of blood impurities; roots out so-called skin disorders—and stops rheumatism, too.

This is why S.S.S. is accepted as the greatest of all blood purifiers, blood builders and system strengtheners. Start taking S.S.S. today. Its medicinal ingredients are purely vegetable. Your nerves will become stronger, you will have more energy, vitality and vigor and a more up and going appearance.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

S.S.S. Makes You Feel Like Yourself Again

Add a Porch of BRICK

YOU'LL be delighted with the distinction a BRICK porch will add to your home.

Not only will it add to its good appearance but a BRICK porch never needs painting nor repair, is easy to keep clean and always looks well.

Insist on Brick for Beauty With Economy.

Three Books for Home Builders

Thousands have found in these books the home they want at the price they can afford. They've all been built and lived in—practical and attractive. "Skinted Brick Work" (15c). Newest effects in rough texture walls. "The Home You Can Afford" (10c). Sixty-two homes in picture and plan for average families. "Your Next Home" (10c). 58 entirely different homes. Floor plans and exterior views. Complete working drawings for each home shown.

Tennessee-Kentucky Common Brick Manufacturers' Association

NICHOL BUILDING

Nashville, Tenn.

Common BRICK

Name of Company and Address. Enclosed find _____ cents. Send books checked. ☐ Skinted Brick Work, 15c. ☐ Your Next Home, 10c. ☐ The Home You Can Afford, 10c. Send true literature on new Economy Wall. Name _____ Address _____

Let The Albany-Decatur Daily figure on your next job work.

Market Reports

Local Spots
Middling	24.50
Strict Middling	25.00
Strict Low	23.50
Low	22.50

Matlock's Cash Store

Women's Silk Dresses

Special 3-Day Sale
Wednesday,
Thursday
and Friday

5¢

Beautiful New Silk Dresses Season's Newest Styles and Colors

Dresses at $4.98, $8.98, $9.98, $12.49, $14.98, $19.98, $24.98, to $29.98

Buy one dress at the regular price and get a second dress for only 5 cents.

Prompt Delivery
Phone for food
It's the Better Way

USE DAILY WANT ADS

$3,500 IN CASH First Prize PRIZES. Open to Everybody, Anywhere, FOR ANSWERS IN EDUCATIONAL CONTEST.

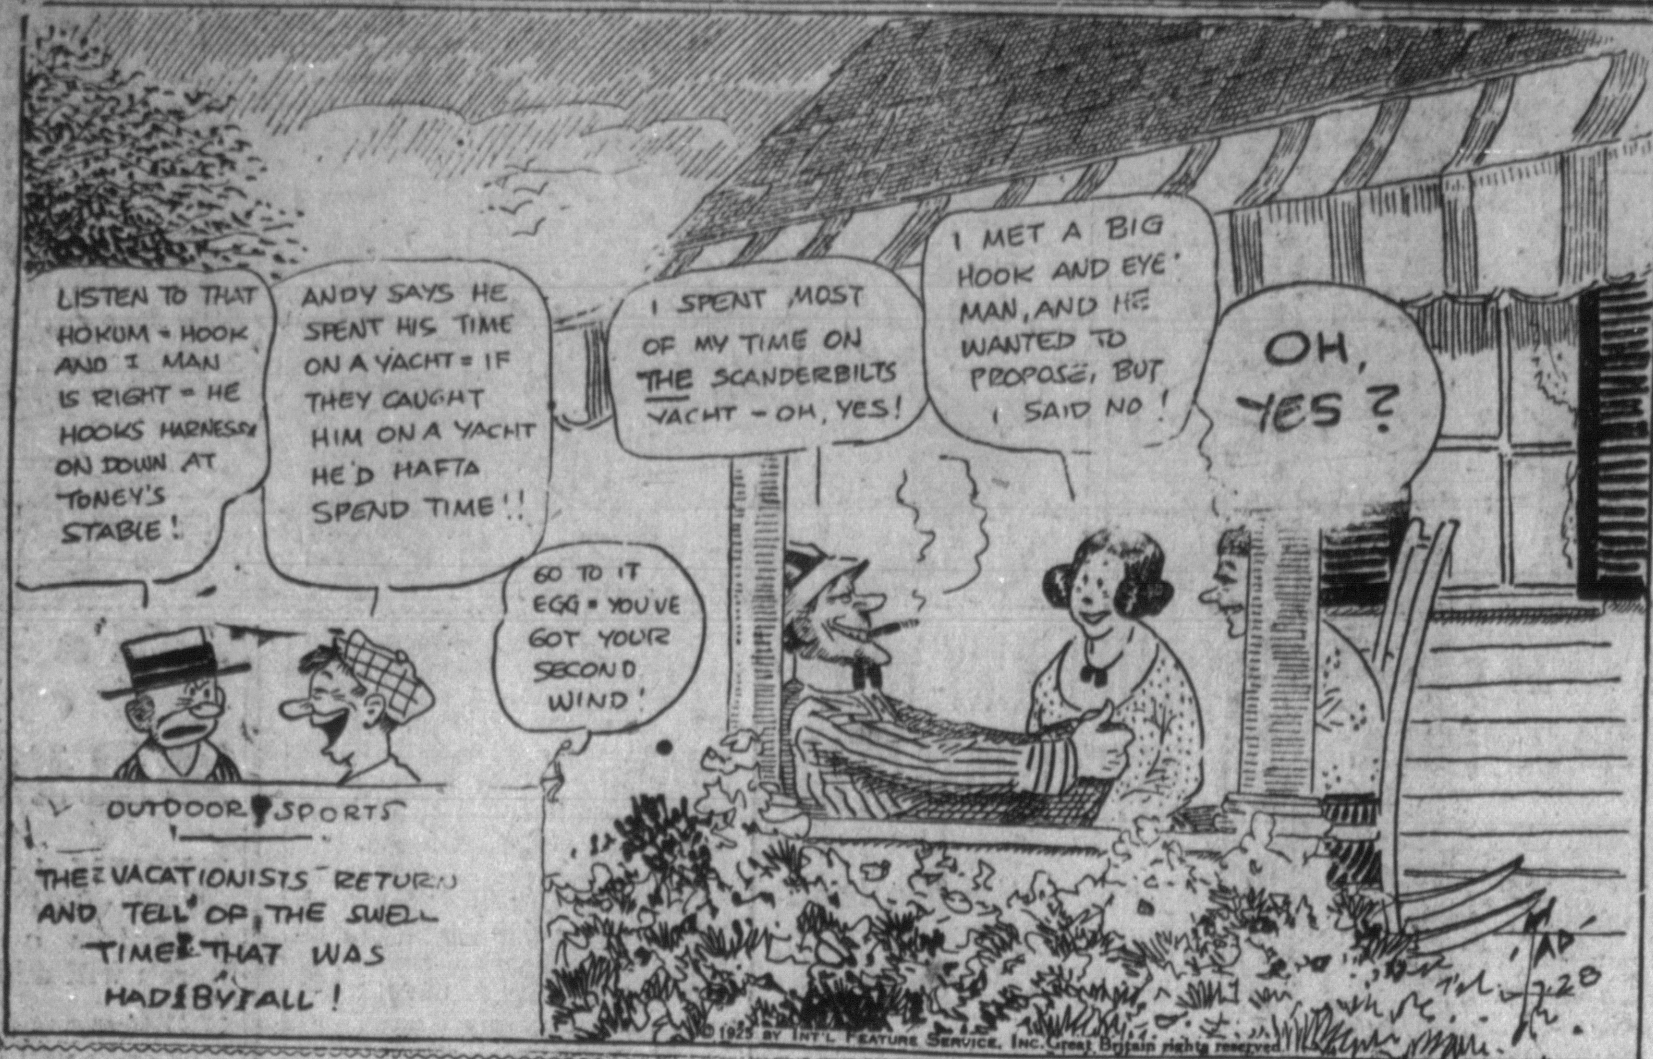

Send stamp for Circular, Rules and Questions. SHEFFIELD LABORATORIES, Dept. 9, Aurora, Illinois.

Women Now Depend on
St. Joseph's G.F.P.
To Restore Their Vitality

666 is a prescription for Malaria, Chills and Fever, Dengue or Billious Fever. It kills the germs.

SPORTS

Anniston Takes First From Athens 4-1; Chilton Features Play With 15 Strikeouts

Anniston Moulders took the first of the six games from Athens Independents Monday when Lefty Chilton, Anniston high school pitcher, tossed in good shape, emerging winner by a 4-1 count. Chilton dropped the Athens club with five safe blows, striking out 15 men. The second game of the series will be played this afternoon at Athens with King, former Decatur high school coach, slated for mound duty.

Sharp worked for the Athenians being replaced by Kaufman, Anniston gathered nine safeties off the Limestone products.

Chilton was accorded perfect support while the Athenians worked under difficulties with three errors being chalked against them.

The Monday game was delayed on account of wet grounds. Today's game will start at 4 o'clock at the fair grounds.

Cincinnati took a double bill from St. Louis Monday and climbed into

How They Stand

Southern League
New Orleans	57	43 .570
Nashville	53	49 .520
Atlanta	55	51 .519
Memphis	53	54 .495
Chattanooga	48	51 .485
Mobile	50	65 .476
Little Rock	49	54 .476
Birmingham	46	54 .460

American League
Philadelphia	60	31 .659
Washington	59	32 .648
Chicago	51	45 .531
St. Louis	48	47 .506
Detroit	48	47 .505
Cleveland	43	52 .450
New York	38	56 .410
Boston	28	66 .298

National League
Pittsburgh	54	35 .607
New York	55	38 .591
Cincinnati	47	44 .516
Brooklyn	44	43 .506
St. Louis	43	50 .462
Chicago	40	51 .440
Philadelphia	42	45 .483
Boston	38	57 .400

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

Southern League
Nashville 3; Birmingham 2.
Mobile 2; Memphis 1.
Atlanta 6; Chattanooga 3.3 3
Little Rock 10; New Orleans 4.

American League
Philadelphia 2; Boston 1.

National League
Cincinnati 4-3; St. Louis 2-0.
Pittsburgh 6; Boston 5.
No others scheduled.

WHERE THEY PLAY TODAY

Southern League
Nashville at Birmingham.
Memphis at Mobile.
Little Rock at New Orleans.
Chattanooga at Atlanta.

American League
St. Louis at New York.
Detroit at Philadelphia.
Cleveland at Boston.
Chicago at Boston.

National League
Boston at Pittsburgh.
Brooklyn at St. Louis.
New York at Chicago.
Philadelphia at Cincinnati.

Hartselle News

MRS. J. H. MCCOY OF ATHENS COLLEGE TO SPEAK AT FIRST METHODIST CHURCH SUNDAY

Hartselle people generally, and Methodist people in particular are looking forward with a great deal of interest to the visit of Mrs. J. H. McCoy, principal of the Athens Female College who will speak at the First Methodist church next Sunday morning at the eleven o'clock service, at which time she will present the claims of this well known college to the people of this section.

Those who have heard Mrs. McCoy will not miss this opportunity to again hear this gifted woman, and those who have never heard her, will be delighted at the opportunity to hear her, as she brings the cause of Christian education, bearing particularly upon the school of which she is the head.

OPEN AIR UNION SERVICES AGAIN RESUMED

Following the two weeks revival services which have been in progress at the First Christian church for the past two weeks, there was a resumption of the union services last Sunday night on the lawn adjoining the church the sermon being delivered by the pastor of the Presbyterian church. The combined choirs, assisted by the orchestra from the other churches made the music for the occasion.

Mrs. R. M. McGlathery of Albany delighted the large audience with a very effective solo just preceding the sermon. These services will continue throughout the month of August, each Sunday night.

Mrs. William Grice, one of the most beloved women of this little city underwent an operation at Benevolent Hospital, Albany, last Monday morning. Her many friends here all join in the hope that recuperation may be rapid, and that she may soon be restored to health and home again. Reports from the hospital are to the effect that she was getting on as well as could be expected.

Rev. Rice, a young Methodist minister of Red Bay, Ala., delighted a large audience at the First Methodist church last Sunday morning, preaching a splendid sermon, filling the appointment made for Rev. F. L. Aldridge who was to have occupied that pulpit at that hour, he being unavoidably detained at home. Rev. Rice is the son of brother Rice who was a former pastor at Somerville several years ago.

Fine rains visited this section last Sunday and Monday. The heaviest of the rains being in the outlying territory east of town. Monday afternoon Hartselle proper fared better, rain coming in greater amounts which was genuinely welcomed. All crops in this section continue to make rapid progress, and barring unforeseen events, there will be a generous yield from the fields in this section.

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Dutton, former citizens of Hartselle removing to Oklahoma several years ago where Mr. Dutton has since been engaged in the drug business, are spending sometime here with friends and relatives. Mr. Dutton has prospered in the west.

B. E. Davis, merchant and planter of Falkville was in Hartselle Monday. Mr. Davis stated that crops were fine in his section, the bottom corn and upland cotton being specially fine.

Mrs. W. J. St. John is reported to be critically ill at the family home near Florette in east Morgan.

Plans for the county fair to be held at the Morgan County Fair Grounds one mile north of town are now well under way, the fair to be held in October. Several committees appointed by the management sometime since are actively engaged in getting the necessary machinery in motion, and it is confidently believed that one of the best fairs of recent years will be the result of their labors.

The force at work on the dam across Shoal Creek for the purpose of making a fish pond, is being enlarged from time to time, and many teams with scrapes are dumping the dirt making the fill. The timber is rapidly being cut and gotten off the ground by A. P. Howell who was the successful bidder on the stumpage.

Capt. R. A. Burleson, Capt. Commanding of Joe Wheeler Troopers, is making active arrangements for the departure of the troop for encampment and purposes to leave here early next Saturday morning for Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., where the troopers will be encamped for several days.

TRY A WANT AD

Austinville News

C. H. Bell is leaving for Chicago this week to visit his son.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Ammison Bond July 24 a son.

W. R. Spight of Albany made an address Sunday morning at the M. E. church on the subject of evolution and its relation to religion. The address was greatly enjoyed by all those who were privileged to hear it.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Clark spent the weekend in Lawrence County.

Emmett McCleary has been working at Moulton the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Birt motored to Lawrence County Sunday to visit Mrs. Birt's grandmother, Mrs. Kitchen.

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Pepper and son Lawson, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Pepper, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Roper attended a family picnic eight miles east of Athens Saturday. They reported a nice time.

Mr. and Mrs. George Sparkman spent the weekend in Neal with Mr. Sparkman's sister, Mrs. P. Roberts.

Don't Let Baby Suffer Needless Pain In Summer

Hot weather is the time when Baby most frequently becomes sick. Yet millions of modern mothers now know through personal experience that much of this suffering is needless. They know that Teethina—the prescription of a baby doctor—helps correct and prevent these midsummer ills.

Mother, don't experiment when Baby has Colic, Diarrhoea, Acid, Sour, Gassy Stomach, Constipation, Cholera Morbus and such ills. Use Teethina for quick relief! It helps regulate the little liver and bowels, corrects acid conditions, aids digestion and helps send purer, healthier blood coursing through rosy cheeks. The price is only 50c, yet you realize the priceless value when Baby is well and playful again.

FREE! SEND FOR USEFUL Booklet About Babies C. J. MOFFETT CO., COLUMBUS, GA.

TEETHINA Builds Better Babies

You Know a Tonic is Good when it makes you eat like a hungry boy and brings back the color to your cheeks. You can soon feel the Strengthening, Invigorating Effect of GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC 60c.

TRY OUR CURB SERVICE

—ON THE—
SHADY SIDE SECOND AVE.
CADELL DRUG COMPANY
T. A. CADELL, Prop.

Chesterfield's popularity is securely founded on the bed rock of quality

SUCH POPULARITY MUST BE DESERVED

LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

PURINA Coal Strike

THREATENS

Put in your Winter's supply now—protect yourself against scarcity and soaring prices, and save

25c

a ton on August 1 advance.

Try Our Dogwood-Montevallo, Blocton, Red Ash Cahaba and Jellico Coal

PHONE ALBANY 327 328

TURNER COAL AND GRAIN CO.